Problems or Repairs: 4. PROPS. The trim on the back right foot of the desk was reattached before the show 5. PROPS. The dust mop and ticker paper became hopelessly entangled and Sven took the entire bundle offstage when he left. He was, however, unable to retrieve several pieces of paper that fell downstage when ripped. 6. PROPS. A replacement pen, along with two additional backups, were acquired from Krista's office. 7. SOUND. The adjustment made to the preshow music yesterday was found to be a bit too loud when we listened to it during sound check because the beginning of the track is naturally louder than the rest. We readjusted the level back down a bit. 8. LIGHTS. The scoop lights hung from the fly rail began slowly flashing on to full and off during intermission, even though the work lights were locked out. After calling Mandy, they were unplugged for the rest of the show. No other mysterious light flashes were seen
Accidents or Injuries: No notes tonight, thank you
Additional Notes: There will be NO photo call following tomorrow's matinee  Although the size of the audience appears to stave off the cold in the house, the booth is freezing and the backstage crew is now wearing their coats—and sometimes scarves and mittens.

Thanks everyone,
